He would be very hard to please who could not take delight in this excellent trail. Yes, at the back of beyond – indeed, largely outside Surrey – but if Doug could make it from Brighton then so could you. Yes, the single lane access road, Rectory Lane, was uncommonly narrow and long; but there were few other cars using it. And yes, the early part of the trail, using Waggoner's Wells, was familiar enough, thanks in some part to these very hares, Chastity Belt and 'IsKnees, but then it was extremely attractive and scenic, and the rest of the trail, less well-known, lived up to this standard. Not a yard of blacktop, though when we my smuggling beer to my car: I did not stop to explain my habit of acquiring a store, so that if the Biermeister is tardy in returning I have beer available. I must admit that these days this seems an unnecessary precaution; Tequil'Over ensures the runners are always greeted with beer. And indeed wine.

Last year some 63,000 rapes were reported to the police, which means 8 every hour, all round the clock; and this obviously excludes rapes which go unreported. It seems to be generally believed that rapists are driven by desire: I do not agree. Rapists wish to inflict fear and pain; they are expressing their profound dislike of women. I see them as loners, or living chiefly in reached Grayshott, where we have tended in the past to start such runs, we could glimpse the road. No, this was first class, with varied checks and constant attendance from our hares. Wonderful sunny weather, and as near as need be no mud.

There were said to be two short cuts in a trail over 6 miles long; I have to admit I did not see either signalled. J. Arthur was adamant we did not take them, though admitting one very long stretch had no flour on it, and we could not see that anyone ahead – assumably Stevie Blunder, Kelinchi, and Miss Bean – had gone anywhere else. This happened shortly after we were baffled to discover the trail marked in sawdust, as if Pistoffen had taken over; Chastity Belt explained she had switched to a mixture of flour and sawdust, and perhaps dogs had devoured the flour part, a likely tale!. We did have Atalanta with us, doubtless because she caught us up only after 30 minutes had elapsed, and she never takes short cuts knowingly.

On reflection we did catch up with Body Shop, who really had taken the major short cut, so doubtless J. Arthur was right, and we had been on the main trail throughout. I was back after 100 minutes; I am sure the faster runners had been at the beer for a fair while. Stevie Blunder observed the society of other men. The expression “a hen-pecked husband” has no real female equivalent, though of browbeaten wives there is no shortage: men seem to assume dominance as a natural role. “Masculine” conversations I have always found distasteful and indeed tedious.

There is of course the problem that very few reported rapes end in a conviction. It is hard to escape the inference that police forces are affected by the same masculine prejudices I have described, and that our legal system has been installed largely by men. If some of the anti-male language used by a few vocal feminists seems extreme, I can at least see where they are coming from. We men need to grow up.

Addendum 2402

I seemed to have missed a highly enjoyable run, ah well! Following the GM's abortive attempt to rename that maverick hasher (SpunkBubble) I have a protest letter from him.

Over to the RA:

"The RA had been rebuked for dismantling a no parking sign to make way for his Mini

But has revenge as follows.....

Scots corner... RHUM, Simple, Bodyshop

Sinners:

Stevie B for wetting the trail twice

Trapeze Artist Veggie Queen

Cocktail Artist Mrs G

Inside out Miss Bean"

⊕ My landlord says he needs to come and talk to me about how high my heating bill is. I told him, "My door is always open".

Did you hear about the hungry clock? It went back four seconds!

My maths teacher called me average. How mean!

The man in the wheelchair that stole my camouflage jacket you can hide but you can't run.

I used to be addicted to the Hokey Cokey, but I turned myself around.

I've written a song about tortillas. Actually, it's more of a rap.

Long fairy tales have a tendency to dragon.

Letters to the editor

Dear Sir, The Mighty Tossler has informed me that you are contemplating using my name in vain [should that be in vein after the COVID boosters? MB].

I do not know much about hashing but the peripatetic Petal says that only the RA can award names and the Grind Master has no authority – like the bishop in chess is more powerful than the king!

So if you wish to avoid legislation, do not use this sobriquet again.

Yours curmudgeonly, SpunkBubble – lovely!

PS Gender neutral – there are 10 types of people in the world, those that understand binary and those that don't!

PPS I was full of chagrin after the GM's words but delighted that he was undermined by the harriettes and, therefore, Le Pro and yours truly both came out on top - not on the harriettes though!?
