As our website firmly attests;
"All Runs Start 11:00 SHARP! *"

With the permanent footnote:

"* - Except Remembrance day :- 11:02", proudly sitting at the bottom.

Over the years, it has been somewhat of a trial to honour the promise, with various tribulations including;

Closed roads, often caused by slightly more "official" groups than ours observing the ceremony, delaying arrival.

Being "chucked out" of the pub car-park (at Bletchingly - ONE of the reasons I never go in that damn pub despite the ample carpark) and hurriedly all driving across the road to gate crash the local ceremony.

The sound quality is diabolical, the volume distorted, and the Bongo insists on a continuous warning "beep" if you open the doors with the key in the ignition (which it must be of course for the radio!), so shut they must remain, I open the electric windows.

The bagpipes "wail on"... it is past 11:00!, the troops are assembled... the usual Bongs (11 !!)
Silence (sort of)
Bangs (just the one)
Bugles (multi) - Last Post
Sigh of relief (mine)
Run away (all)

Is replaced with... the pipes... eventually terminating.

A lone Bugler doing his / her best with the LP.

REMEMBER THE 11TH OF NOVEMBER

Late comers "skidding" into the hash-designated carpark halfway through the seemingly interminable twominutes.

To this year's minor setback / debacle...

"Teq; can you do the honours with the radio again this year, ? Mine is weedy compared with yours". Requests Flash (his GMness).

"Hmm... not sure", I say, "My lovely multi sound / TwatNav / video system has packed up and temporarily been replaced with a steam radio and CD I plucked out of the Granada (!?). The permanent tuning to Radio 4 has been compromised and I don't seem to be able to scan to it with the poor VHF FM signal here in the sticks!"

"Ok I'll give it a try, gather the troops".

Desperately trying to remember the frequency for Radio 4; "Is it 93.4 or 94.3?" I ask myself, (no other bugger will probably know. Or care!?), I attempt a "manual tune"....

"Nope! That's sodding radio 1...

Nope! That's even worse; Radio 3....

Ahh here it is ..bagpipe music; the "Flowers of the Forest"? Not sure if they play that? Never mind, maybe different this year. Hey, J- Arth, does this sound right to yoi?"

"Yerrssss; that'll be the band playing, turn it up".

Two minutes "silence" .. (crackle... slam, cough, fart, Crackle).
More "silence"; Amie's (?) dog barking, "Spud" howling ... ("what are we STANDING about for?") and finally Reveille! (more bugle), then... Freedom!

Nobody comments! Flash has a start circle, I avoid it like the plague, stop the bloody radio ... probably tuned to some local radio covering a parade in "Chipping Nutberry", close all the windows, lock all the doors, and wander off to practice some trumpet on the trail!

Phew... can't wait for next year!

This car park was once a favourite with Surrey hares. We almost always started as we did today, up and up to the trig point with the view, today somewhat misty. Once a hare took us all the way down from there, to the south – with a very tiring return. Atalanta spared us that, but we certainly found the numerous hills she had promised. I know her well enough to be confident we should end at the windmill directly above our car park, so it was clear very early on that we were running a left-hander; and indeed your elderly scribe solved an early check. Atalanta had promised us a 5 mile trail; it took us 100 minutes, which works out at an average speed of 3 mph, embarrassing if true. It did not feel like that!

It was good to find Blue Suit up with the front runners.

RHUM professed disappointment that J. Arthur sometimes went wrong at the checks; on such occasions he was usually heading for home sooner than our hare intended. Ms Bean was indefatigable at the checks, in particular bringing joy to Blue Suit's heart when she found flour just where he had predicted. The early part of the trail included numerous twists and turns; if the return was largely in a straight line, it took in a view point I did not remember, with a beautifully inlaid bench, and a most curious shelter elsewhere, in the form of a cave. That skyline as we returned was a very attractive feature of our trail, though of course available only to runners who eschewed the short cuts on offer. By then we had been joined by Petal and Raffles, late starters as seems to have become their wont, and next week's hares.

Three and Fourpence noticed my standing to attention during the Silence, and inferred correctly that I had once worn Her Majesty's uniform – as of course have several other hashers. Indeed Glow Worm, like me, served in submarines. 3S 4d himself put in 26 years in the Territorial Army, but of course our hare is the Surrey hasher with the most distinguished military career. She set out to qualify for the SAS (I am sure many of you are watching Rogue Heroes) but was defeated by their constant prevarication at admitting a woman, a prejudice not overcome until last year.

Difficult not to feel a twinge of sympathy for leaders from wealthy nations at CoP27, obliged to make the right noises but conscious they cannot take any real steps to avoid the catastrophe now certain to overtake the world, because their voters would never accept the dramatic changes in lifestyle required. The modern word is "greenwashing": making the required statements of belief and commitment, but doing nothing unpopular. This would be true even of China (if they had been there), not a democracy, but knowing their people need to go on becoming better off if they are not to turn on their leaders.

Naturally talk at Sharm el-Sheikh has not focussed on future disasters awaiting Northern nations, but those already inflicted on Southern states. (Oh, by our behaviour, yes) They speak of reparations, of our relieving the misery we have caused. No chance; if we are too pre-occupied by immediate problems to address the horrors awaiting us, we are certainly not going to help someone else instead. Talk of course, possibly even empty promises, but real help.... Blah blah blah, as Greta Thunberg puts it. Jaw, jaw, as Churchill put it, but no more, no more.

SH3 & THE EQUIDS or QUIDS IN QUIDS OUT

In the first; a 6 furlong dash at Doncaster, UNCLE was narrowly beaten into second (a head) GERRYVILLE competed in a 3 mile chase at and came 3rd. He said ' I would have preferred a lot less shiggy'

AT Newmarket in a 7f dash. ATLANTA BLUE skipped in front of COME ON TEDDY to deny him second place to CANOODLED

Kempton; DORKING LAD placed in the 235.

In the 305 DORKING BOY was nowhere to be seen with CALL ME LORD winning at 11/2

FRANSHAM went for a 2m hurdle at Wetherby at 5/1 and came 5th

Our esteemed editor mentioned horses disallowed by the board; HOOF HEARTED is another! The commentator; calling the piratical sounding AARR to victory , produced considerable mirth

We've always thought that horses names were restricted to 17 letters However on several occasions I have come across names with 18 letters Is this achieved by a double brandy at the bar one wonders.

Names are often used to advertise a company product or service; the number of horses with MINELLA are legion (advertising a Hotel) likewise SIZING +a country or region- presumably a geological survey company and; HEALING POWER a belief? The winner of the Grand National OXO might have given unintentional publicity to the product but it sure helped mssrs Liebig sleep well at night.

Q; What do you call a horse when you can't think of a name for it ?

A:- AHORSEWITHNONAME; now 7 years old at the Nicky Henderson Seven Barrows stable and is doing pretty well thank you.

SPORTING MIKE aka FOLLOWTHROUGH was spotted running in heavy conditions in a 2 miler at Bangor on Wednesday MY BROTHER MIKE came 3rd /16 in a h cap at Newcastle

ARTHUR'S QUAY; 22/1 was a long way 3rd/7 at Newcastle OOH BETTY did not show at Market Rasen. BETTY BALOO was fancied to do well in a 2m + hcap at Market Rasen and came 2nd. FLASH THE STEEL at Bangor couldn't match his win at Fontwell finishing 5/7 'Too squelchy for me' he said

BLOW YOUR HORN competed Newcastle but did not make the frame ' I was left out of puff with all that blowing' she said.

ICY DIP sprang a surprise at 16 / 1 at Kempton I reckon the two legged version's calendar girl pic of skiing in the buff must rate as one of the greatest of the century and yet people pay millions for a pic of of a bunch of sunflowers or a can of beans !

THE MOUSE KING was looking to celebrate his birthday (13/11) early at Newmarket but came 5/17 perhaps he didn't like the going either

Well time and space. Dictates that I finish now so ON ON

Take care

Ld Raleigh at a canter

Couldn't immediately find that "Buff Skiing" pic that so impressed Lord R, but a short trip down memory lane revealed this "Lionel Tye Commemoration Whisky tasting" from 2001
