At last! We were expecting the battle of Goose Green, but the GM is coming to the end of his long apprenticeship in trail setting and cottoning on on.

He served up a pre-Christmas treat (if you forget the two steep hills at the beginning) with some interesting turns and scenery. On the way there we saw one of those Abarth cars with "Bee Happy" on it and my mind wandered into imagining SH3 as a colony of our furry flying friends. It also got me thinking about my sexuality as Uncle Gerry Bee keeps going on about my lack of knackers, especially as one of our welcome visitors is known as Last Testicle! ( Last "Will and" Testicle actually—Teq)

This trail of delight was served up by our very own GM Queen Bee. Did you know that the Queen Bee seeks many mates, stores millions of sperm and has no more need for mates afterwards? Furthermore, after mating each drone bee dies.

who had given a lift to Atalanta making her an Early Bumble Bee, which Wiki tells me is one of our prettiest and smallest bees with a bright orange tail. It is also very common and can be found in in all kinds of habitats, but the less said about that the better.

In the car park we saw the RHUM Bee and Em Bee

As we climbed the steep hill we bumped into some drones in the wood, discussing operations (not the military type).

We encountered some other odd types too.

After Abinger Hammer there was a very tempting VSC which we took, so the red line on the trail map is pure speculation.

Back at the "circle" last week's hare, Kelinchi, was given her down-down which had been delayed by wind, rain and freezing temperatures.

Gerry Bee stood in as Queen Bee as the Queen Bee had set the trail. Then Bouncer Bee and Em Bee had turns in rallying the crowd.

Not having found enough sperm the Queen Bee was seen checking the porn and dating sites whilst Bouncer Bee was in full flow.

Em Bee lost him completely and he nodded off.

Chief worker bee dispensed refreshing ales and the worker bees enjoyed the show.

Back at the newly refurbished pub everyone was in a festive mood and ready to make honey.

Happy New Year Everyone!
On on, TFD

Directions

M25 to J10 then A3 SW to Guildford. Take Guildford slip road then follow A25 signs and Aldershot (A323) signs until passing under A3 and joining A323 proper.

Follow A323 Aldershot Road for approx 5 miles towards Normandy.

1 Km past sharp right hand bend, turn left at crossroads (opposite the public carpark) into Glaziers Lane. Continue for 200 yards and turn left into Manor Fruit Farm, park in Normandy Village Hall Car Park.

Haggis and Veggie Haggis will be served, wear TARTAN or NAVY BLUE !!!!

Pub is 1.5 miles further on, back on A323.

Stuff ... to be updated later.

As you all know the RS is not sent as an attachment, but as a link; Relative rather than Absolute (ish) so to speak.

This space may well be slightly better used in a later version / issue / iteration /...Who knows.

Oooh Jokes ! (?)

I put the turkey on early on Christmas morning.
That'll teach me not to get dressed in the dark.

I have just had my Christmas Dinner. In hindsight using the slow cooker was probably not the best idea.

Last time I tried dating it was a disaster. Everyone around me was ill. Then I found out it was Shingles night

A warning that there are counterfeit Mr Kipling Xmas mince pies on sale in some supermarkets .I hear that they are exceedingly good fakes.

Grandad's getting forgetful in his old age. At the family get together he asked me who it was that could play the mouth-organ. I had to remind him that it was our Monica.

Are all electricians spending Xmas at ohm, at the gym going circuits or spending a night in the cells before being charged.

My teacher told me not to worry about spelling because now there's autocorrect. Four that I'm internally grapevine.

I got knocked over by a cyclist earlier, and while I was laying on the ground he said, "Think yourself lucky."

I said, "Why the hell should I think myself lucky?"

He said, "I usually drive a bus."

The sentence "Are you as bored as I am?" can be read backwards and still makes sense.

"What do we want?"

"Hearing Aids!"

"When do we want them?"

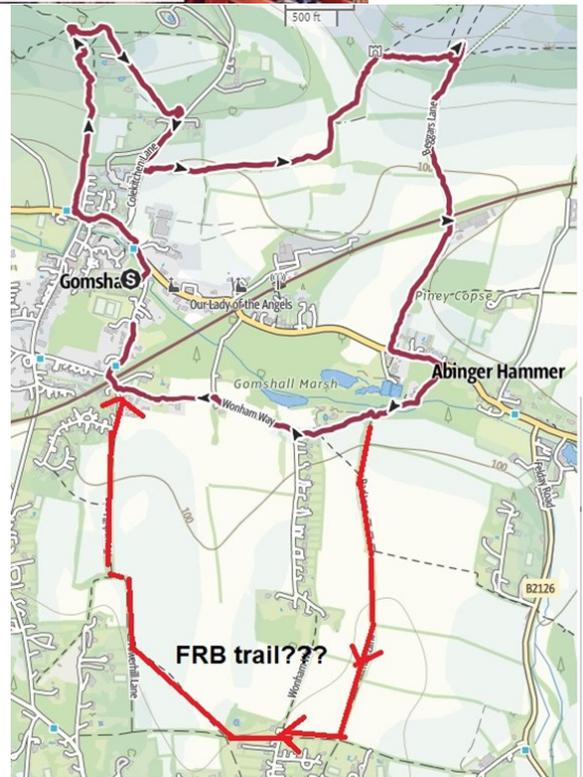

"Hearing Aids!"

My wife doesn't like curries . She can't eat rice cos she's basmatic.

Just bought a Humpty Dumpty toy from Aldi, it's brilliant. It comes with Aldi Kings horses and Aldi Kings men.

Don't ask!!
